ARLISS IN THRILLING PLAY OF ADVENTURE 'THE GREEN GODDESS'

Appears as Raja in William Archer's Highly Interesting Oriental Drama.

BOOTH THEATRE.—"THE GREEN GODDESS," a play in four acts, by William Archer, the Raja of Rukh, George Arliss, Major Anthony Gwynne, Herbert Waring, Miss Olive Wyndham, Dr. Basil Frisbee, Cyril Kesteven, Lieut. Denis Cardew, Herbert Ransom, The Temple Priest, David A. Leonard, An Asah, Miss Helen Nowell.

Harden theatregoers have been looking for something in the line of "The Jest" to make this season worthy of dinner table conversation. Well, they have it. At the Booth Theatre last evening first nighters saw in "The Green Goddess" a play of adventure that would titillate any pawns.

In a felicitous curtain speech George Arliss, the star, said that Winthrop Ames, the producer, had thought best to keep the soft pedal on the fact that William Archer, the author, had been the first to translate Ibsen for the English stage, because, as the actor put it, "if the impression got about that this was a highbrow play we should all be ruined." But they need have no fears. Ibsen never would recognize, except for flashes, that it had been written by a literary second cousin.

While the play is an unmitigated delight, it is of no unmitigated device. It brings to mind a mingling of "The Broken Wing" and "The Lady of the Lambs" plus "Via Wireless." That isn't to say that it isn't entirely distinctive and original, for the English authority on the drama hadn't seen any of these American theatrical by-products when for the first time he drove his own pen into the arena, where he himself had many an opportunity to put thumbs down.

GILLETTE HURT BY FALL.

Actor Dislocated Shoulder on Wharf—Spends Night in Hospital. Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. HADLEY, Conn., Jan. 18.—William Gillette suffered a dislocation of his right shoulder Saturday night by a fall while on the wharf where his famous houseboat, the Aunt Polly, is in winter quarters. He is resting comfortably at his home on the Heights here. The actor was taken to the Middlesex Hospital in Middletown, fifteen miles north of here, after the accident, where an X-ray examination showed the dislocation. He was brought back here Sunday after treatment had put him in a more comfortable condition. In answer to inquiry as to Mr. Gillette's condition it was stated at his residence this evening that he is able to be about and is not seriously inconvenienced by his mishap.

TRIANGULAR THEATRE NEXT.

The Ambassador Theatre in West Forty-ninth street will be opened by the Shuberts, it was announced yesterday, early in February with Anselm Gotz's production of the musical comedy "The Rose Girl." The place will have its premiere in Atlantic City this week with a cast including Charles Purcell, Miss Marjorie Clark, Miss Mabel Withee and Stewart Baird. The Ambassador, which is the first of six theatres that the Shuberts are building on Forty-ninth street, the Lincoln Theatre, is the first built upon the triangular plan. This arrangement, designed by Herbert J. Krapp, architect, and carried out by Edward Margrove, the builder, permits of an additional two hundred seats, so that the capacity of the theatre will be 1,300. The design also allows seats, dressing rooms or lounges in angles or corners.

MME. BORI TO SING "MIMI."

Her Return in "La Boheme" to Be Opera Feature Next Week. Mme. Lucrèce Bori after an absence of five years will return to the Metropolitan Opera Friday evening of next week as Mimi in "La Boheme." Others in the cast will be Miss Roselle and Mr. Gigli. "Mimi" will have a special matinee performance Thursday of next week with Mme. Bori and Mr. Gigli.

Monday, with Miss Farrar and Mr. Harrold; "Mefistofele," Wednesday, with Mme. Alda and Mr. Gigli; "Madama Butterfly," Thursday, with Miss Farrar and Messrs. Crandall and Scott; "Don Carlos," Saturday afternoon, with Miss Ponselle and Mr. Martinelli; "Tristan and Isolde," Saturday night, with Mme. Matzenauer and Mr. Semlitsch.

AERONAUTS TO SEE "DEAR ME."

John Golden received an acceptance yesterday from Lieut. J. G. Hinton, U. S. N., in behalf of Lieut. Louis A. Kloor, Jr., and himself for the production of the producer of "Dear Me" for the party of rescued naval aeronauts and their families to attend "Dear Me" at the Republic Theatre, The invitation originally was for Lieut. Kloor, but the opening night, but the reply, sent from Napa, N. Y., came too late. They will go to-morrow night and occupy a box. Lieut. Stephen A. Farrell and Mrs. Farrell will be unable to attend.

ACTOR HIT BY AUTOMOBILE.

While crossing Broadway at Forty-second street early last night Albert Terry, who is playing in "Heartsick House" with the Theatre Guild at the Garrick, was struck and knocked down by an automobile. He was hurried to Lenox Hospital, where he is now lying, and his injuries are not serious. Edger Kent, English actor, played Mr. Terry's role of Capt. Shotover last night. It was Mr. Kent's first appearance here since the war.

A SELWYN GOING ABROAD.

Archibald Selwyn, secretary and treasurer of Selwyn & Co., will sail to-morrow by the steamer "Holland" for Europe for a two months' trip abroad, in which he will visit, with Mrs. Selwyn, France, Italy, Germany and England. The trip, which is made in the interest of his own firm, as well as of his allies, Sam H. Harris and Arthur Hopkins, is for the purpose of arranging for productions of American successes by these managers and for the importation of foreign plays, to be brought over intact.

GALLI-CURCI IN CONCERT HERE.

It is announced that Mme. Galli-Curci and Joseph Lefebvre will give a concert in the Metropolitan Opera House, Sunday, February 13, in aid of the music school of Greenwich House, 44 Barrow street.

AMONG THE PLAYGOERS.

Mrs. Horatio Nelson Slater took five friends to the Belasco Theatre last night to see "Deburan." Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Butler had six guests there. Others in the audience were Mr. E. Harbert, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Winslow and Mr. Theodore Pratt.

"Tip-Top" at the Globe was seen by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gilchrist, Mr. and Mrs. George Enlow, Mr. and Mrs. Brewster Jennings, Mr. William Valentine Higgins, Miss Florence D. Murphy and Mr. Willard M. Jones.
